Alex's Blog

I'm sitting with a friend in my bedroom and we're watching a fantasy film. It's the first Harry Potter film. I don't know why, but I really want Voldemort to win, not the good guys. Is something wrong with me?

We sometimes like the bad guys in films. That is normal. The bad guys give us positive feelings about ourselves. Their lives, like ours, aren't perfect. Sometimes, we don't like the bad guys' actions, but we like their personalities. They are often fascinating, and it's fun to watch them do exciting things. So, we can continue to love bad guys but feel good about ourselves. The good guys usually win in the end anyway.

READING (30 points)1 Read the article. Then tick (✓) the correct athlete(s) in the chart. (18 points)*Lucky Routines

According to some athletes, lucky routines help them perform well in competitions. In fact, they believe they can't win a game without these routines.

Tennis player Serena Williams, for example, believes she mustn't change her socks during a tournament. She wears the same socks for all the games. Serena also believes she must bring her lucky shower sandals to each game.

Another athlete, basketball player Jason Terry, has got a very unusual routine. The night before a game, he sleeps in the basketball shorts of his opponents! What else does Jason do for luck? He always eats some chicken before a game. He plays basketball very well, so maybe his routines really are lucky.

- HURRICANE HARVEY HIT TEXAS COAST ON 25TH AUGUST
- STRONG WINDS AND RAIN DESTROYED 204,000 HOMES
- KIND PEOPLE HELPED HURRICANE VICTIMS

The Anheuser-Busch company in Georgia, USA, usually makes alcoholic drinks. But last week, the workers began putting water in cans. There were people in Texas with no clean drinking water because of the storm, so the company sent them about 155,000 cans of water.

Some areas were completely underwater because of the storm. Every day, volunteers worked hard to save people in these areas. The volunteers were weak after hours of work and needed food to continue. There weren't any shops open, so Matthew Otero decided to help. He went to his doughnut shop and made doughnuts and coffee for the volunteers.

Christmas traditions

Peg

I'm buying Christmas decorations tomorrow. I like getting ready for Christmas early. Are you doing anything special this year?

Clive

Yes. I'm entering the annual Santa Run race in Newtown, Wales. All the participants wear Santa Claus costumes, and they run about seven kilometres. People give money for the event, and we're going to use that money to help many people have a better Christmas this year.

Emma

We live in New York, but we're staying with our family in sunny Australia this Christmas. On Christmas Day, we're all going to the annual summer music festival at Bondi Beach. People come to the festival in swimsuits. Can you imagine wearing a swimsuit at Christmas in England?

- 1 Peg / Clive / Emma isn't celebrating Christmas at home.
- 2 Peg / Clive / Emma is going to do a sports activity.
- 3 Peg / Clive / Emma is going shopping soon.
- 4 Peg / Clive / Emma isn't going to wear winter clothes.
- 5 Peg / Clive / Emma is going to do something kind.
