READING (30 points)1 Read the promotional material. Then tick (✓) the sentences T (true) or F (false). (15 points)*Mongolia

Mongolia is a very big country in East Asia, between Russia and China. It's more than 1,550,000 square kilometres. There isn't much tourism in Mongolia, and there aren't many people living there – only about 3.3 million. But, there are many beautiful places to see. About 80% of the country has got mountains.

Some people take tours of Mongolia and learn about Genghis Khan, the first emperor of the Mongol Empire. They also learn about the culture and traditional clothes of various ethnic groups of Mongolia.

Ulaanbaatar is the capital city. It's got a town square with a monument of Genghis Khan. There are some palaces and museums near there, and tourists usually visit the Naran Tuul market, too.

Are you looking for something new to do? Right now, people are taking night tours of the factories in the Kawasaki industrial zone. The people on the tours aren't actually going inside the factories, but they are taking great pictures of them from outside. The factories have got many lights and they look amazing at night. How can you go on a factory tour? Here are two options:

By Boat

One popular way to tour the industrial zone is by yakatabune – a long, traditional Japanese boat. People often have a meal while they sail past the magnificent bridges.

By Bus

Bus tours are about 3 hours and 15 minutes long and are a great way to see the factories. The only way to see some sights is on these tours.

Last year, traffic accidents in India killed over 150,000 people. Many of these people didn't even get to hospital before they died. Why did this happen? Because the victims didn't receive medical care immediately.

That's why the work of Suraj Prakash Vaid is so important. People call Suraj on his mobile phone and he rides on his scooter and takes people in road accidents to hospital. Suraj began this important mission 30 years ago and now he is famous in India.

So, why did Suraj start helping people? When he was 24, he was a taxi driver and he saw a terrible road accident. Many people just stood there and didn't do anything. Suraj immediately took the injured people to hospital and saved their lives. At that moment, he decided never to walk away from an accident again.

READING (30 points)1 Read Mike's blog and tick (✓) the sentences T (true) or F (false). (15 points)Mike's Blog*Rubbish in a Geyser

On 15th September 2018, I was visiting Yellowstone National Park in Wyoming, USA, with my family. We were walking near the Ear Spring geyser and my father was telling us about it. "The geysers in the park sometimes shoot water into the air," he explained. "But Ear Spring rarely erupts."

Suddenly, my brother pointed at the geyser. We weren't expecting to see such an unusual sight. Hot water was shooting out into the air. It was reaching a height of more than nine metres! But the water wasn't clean. It had rubbish in it. The rubbish was falling on the ground around the area. A park guide was also watching this amazing phenomenon. He explained why it was happening. Visitors to the park often throw their rubbish into the geyser, but the rubbish obviously doesn't disappear under the ground.

Hi Sally,

Can I stay with you tonight? I'm afraid to sleep at home because there was a robbery in our street last night. It was at my friend Kelly's house!

Someone broke the kitchen window while Kelly and her parents were sleeping. The noise woke Kelly, but she thought it was their cat. She left her room and then she heard people talking in the living room. She suddenly understood what was happening. She ran to her neighbours and told them to call the police. They came five minutes later, but the criminals were already driving away. Kelly didn't see them, so she couldn't give the police officers a description.

Jen

Hi Jen,

Of course you can stay with us. I've got an extra bed in my bedroom. Come at 9.00, and we can watch a film on my TV.

READING (30 points)1 Read the article. Then tick (✓) the correct place in the chart. (15 points)City Life vs Life in the Countryside*How are people in cities different than people in the countryside?*People in the city

Psychologists completed a personality study of 56,000 people in London. According to this study, people living in busy areas like King's Cross in Central London are extroverts. They are often more adventurous than people living in quieter parts of the city, and the people in the quieter parts are more hard-working than those in the city centre. Also, there is more crime in the centre of big cities, so people there are more afraid and more worried than people in rural areas.

People in the countryside

In the UK, only about 25% of the population live in rural areas, so it's quieter in these areas than in cities. According to a 2013 British report, people in rural areas are more optimistic and are happier than people in cities.

READING (30 points)1 Read the online article. Then choose the correct answers. (15 points)*One Dress – 100 Days

According to art teacher Julia Mooney, people often throw out good clothes and buy new ones. Fashion is changing all the time, so some people only wear the new clothes two or three times. Mooney wants her students to think about the effect of this “fast fashion” on the environment. So, she’s going to wear the same clothes for 100 days. Mooney hopes to teach her students to keep their clothes for a longer time, reduce waste and preserve the environment.

Factories make about 80 billion items of clothing a year. They use 2,720 litres of water to make one T-shirt. In the process, they create a huge amount of rubbish and pollute the rivers and oceans. In the USA, people throw out over 9.5 billion kilograms of textiles every year.

- 1 Julia Mooney is an artist / a teacher.

Internet Support

How do you destroy a virus before it destroys your hard drive?

Step 1: Get good anti-virus software. It will look for viruses on your computer. If you don't stop the viruses, they will damage your computer.

Step 2: If anti-virus software finds anything dangerous, it will ask for permission to destroy it. You should agree and then turn off your computer. After five minutes, turn your computer on and operate the anti-virus software again. Make sure the software completely destroyed the virus.

How to Prevent Viruses

- 1 Viruses often look like normal e-mails and have links to websites. Before you open the website, be certain the e-mail is really from a friend.
- 2 Many people stream music from the Internet. Illegal websites often contain viruses, so be careful!
- 3 Keep all your important files on an external hard drive. That way, you won't lose any information.

	T	F
1 It's important to have good anti-virus software protect your computer.
